

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A method for treating an object with a laser including emitting a laser beam from a laser; expanding the laser beam in a first direction; removing a portion of the laser beam through a mask, the portion including at least edges of the expanded laser beam extending in the first direction; and condensing the laser beam in a second direction orthogonal to the first direction in order to form a line-shaped laser beam on an object.